BANDIT WHO ROBBED S. P. PASSENGERS IS CAPTURED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Bride and Groom Meet Bandit on the Street

Mr. and Mrs. Colen, Walking Along a Street in San Francisco, Recognize Southern Pacific Bandit.

Mrs. Arthur Colen, the bride who was robbed of her engagement ring by the train bandit who held up the Sunset Express of the Southern Pacific at El Monte, near Pomona, on the night of December 1, and who shot and killed H. E. Montague, traveling passenger agent of the railroad, Tuesday met the man who she says is the train robber and slayer on the street in San Francisco and had him arrested.

The man gave the name of John Bostick. He is now in the city prison at San Francisco.

Arthur Colen, the husband, who was also held up and robbed of $40, also positively identified him as the train bandit.

The police said they had strong proofs to indicate that Bostick is the man who held up the Southern Pacific passenger train at Richmond the night of November 14. They will bring all the victims of the Richmond robbery to the city prison to take a look at Bostick.

Wears Expensive Pin

At the time of Bostick's arrest he was wearing an expensive stickpin in his necktie. The stickpin had a big sapphire stone, surrounded by 12 small diamonds.

Mrs. Louise Murphy, mother of Luther Murphy of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, who was one of the victims of the Richmond train robbery, lost a sapphire ring with 12 small diamonds surrounding it. Mrs. Murphy lives at the Woodward hotel, Los Angeles. The setting could easily have been removed from the ring and mounted on a stickpin.

Several of the Richmond robbery victims were taken to see Bostick. The police refused to say what was the result of their visit.

The methods of robbing the Sunset Express and the Southern Pacific at Richmond were similar. In both cases the robber confined himself to the rear Pullman.

Meet Him on Street

Colen and his wife were walking down Mission street between Ninth and Twentieth streets Tuesday morning when Mrs. Colen tugged at the arm of her husband and said:

"There is the man that robbed us on the train!"

Colen looked up.

"It sure is," he said.

The man glanced at Colen and his wife and walked past them. The Colens tried to appear unconcerned.

Follow Their Quarry

They loitered along, glancing backward at the man who walked toward Twentieth street. The Colens crossed and turned around, following the man, who entered a pool room near Twenty-first street. Colen and his wife stopped at a jewelry store opposite the pool room and Colen went in to telephone the police while his wife watched the pool room. Bostick remained in the place till the patrol wagon arrived and Patrolman T. F. Connell entered the pool room and arrested Bostick. The latter made no resistance.

The Southern Pacific has offered a reward of $5000 for the capture of the Los Angeles train robber. Colen said that he and his wife would claim the reward.

Bostick's arrest was due to the keen eyes and fresh memory of Mrs. Colen, who assisted her husband in trapping the alleged bandit.

Bostick was captured at Twentieth and Mission streets, after Colen had telephoned for aid.

Colen and his bride were passengers on the train when it was held up. He is a Southern Pacific engineer, now living at 3607 Twenty-third street, San Francisco.

While on the street Tuesday he and his wife were passed by Bostick. The Colens were struck by the passer's resemblance to the train bandit. Mrs. Colen, who had stood with in a few feet of the unmasked robber, on the train, immediately declared to her husband that Bostick was the culprit.

Couple Follow Suspect

They turned unsuspiciously and followed Bostick, who went into a pool room opposite the store of Scheppeler & Son at 2392 Mission street. Colen went into a nearby jewelry store, where he telephoned to the police.

His wife kept guard from in front of the store, watching Bostick's movements in the poolroom. Just before the arrival of the police she was relieved from this post by an

CHRISTMAS MUSIC BY CHOIR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

"The Coming of the King" Proves a Masterpiece

"The Coming of the King" Given by Presbyterian Choir Proves a Rare Treat for Music Lovers of the City.

"And there were in that same country, shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flocks by night. And to the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them: Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." Carrying out the above and impressing it most forcibly upon the audience the Presbyterian choir, last Sunday afternoon rendered "The Coming of the King," a masterpiece by Dudley Buck, and never before in the history of the choir has it attained such a zenith of perfection as in the rendition of this wonderful cantata.

Under the able direction of Director Howell with Otto Hirschler presiding at the pipe organ, the members of the choir had practiced most faithfully and to each and every member of the choir belongs due credit for the success of the cantata. Upland should indeed feel proud of this choir, for they are all our own people and their musical ability is certainly a credit to any community. Miss Maude Gerry who is one of Upland's own daughters, sang the "Virgin's Lullaby" straight to the heart of every hearer, while Miss Tubbs, leading soprano, showed a range of voice and quality of tone in the rendition of her solos as well as in the choruses which impressed the audience that she is endowed with a voice of rare richness. The men's chorus composed as it was of well-trained voices, sang most acceptably, while Messrs. Black, Fischer and Grahame in solo parts added much to the success of the cantata, and all in all and taken from a general point of view this choir ranks high in the musical world. The members of the choir were:

Soprano—Miss Ruth Tubbs, Miss Bertha Palmer, Miss Dora Tucker, Miss Nellie Anderson, Miss Clara Bissell, Miss Lillian Sandraker, Miss Lulu Roy, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen.

Altos—Mrs. Wm. Trunkfield, Mrs. R. B. Bordwell, Miss Maude Gerry, Miss Viola Amker, Miss Marie Greenleaf.

Tenors—Mr. Wm. Trunkfield, Mr. James Black, Mr. F. Young, Mr. D. E. Dobbins, Mr. James Webster.

Basses—Mr. J. L. Grahame, Mr. Ernest Fischer, Mr. Perry Stone, Mr. Richard Manley, Dr. Colgan.

WELCOME RAIN FALLS

A gentle rain fell steadily here during a great part of Monday, and it is most welcome, as irrigation would have had to be resorted to again soon.

employee of the store and hastened to her home.

While Bostick was oblivious of danger in the pool room the patrol wagon drew up outside. Colen quickly outlined the situation to Patrolman T. F. Connell. Bostick submitted to arrest without giving fight. He was taken to the city prison and held in detainee.

Captain of Detectives Mooney there declared that he was in the hands of the Southern Pacific police, who had an operative, W. J. Mullen, on the scene almost as soon as the prisoner arrived at the hall of justice.

Has Pawn Tickets

In addition to the watch which was identified as the property of a brakeman on the looted train, there were found on the prisoner several pawn tickets.

One of these was for a loose diamond. Colen declared to the police that he was confident this diamond was taken from his bride's engagement ring, which was part of the loot secured by the bandit. Bostick took his arrest with the utmost coolness. His only manifestation of emotion being surliness. Questioned by the detectives, he persisted in denying his guilt and attempted to give an account of his movements for the last five years. Although giving no signs of being confused, he was tripped up in the examination in giving his present address and that of the house he occupied up to a month ago. He said he now lived at 2732 Mission street. He said that up to a month ago he occupied a cottage alone at 2737 Thirty-third avenue, which he described as being at the corner of California street.

He repeated these California street numbers several times, but finally said he understood the address to be 27 to 32 Thirty-third avenue.

PREPARING DISPLAY FOR ORANGE SHOW

North and South in Rivalry Over Orange Display.

The citrus fruit growers of Southern California within the past week have been rushing preliminary plans for the National Orange Show, for the advances from the northern part of the state indicate that the fruit men are planning to carry off the sweepstakes prizes for the best fruit at the exposition at San Bernardino, February 18 to 25.

Northern California will send its best fruit to the National Orange Show to compete with the south, and the Southern California growers are now making their reservations in preparation to defend their prestige.

Pomona, Lordsburg, Claremont and Covina are the big districts in Los Angeles county which have already entered. Riverside and Corona, the two big districts in Riverside county are preparing to select the fruit they will enter. In San Bernardino county Redlands, Highland, East Highlands, West Highlands, Upland, Rialto, Ontario, Etiwanda, Bloomington and Fontana are either already entered or are expected to take an active part in the exposition. Orange and San Diego counties will likewise be represented.

President Earl Paul of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and G. A. Hanson are busily engaged working out the Upland display for the coming show and the plan of these men, although not completed, is to be one of the best ever carried out by this city and will certainly redound to the good of the town.

Maxwell a Worker

From the beginning of the San Bernardino county work, Mr. Maxwell was one of its most devoted volunteer workers, actively engaged as a leader of the Upland association and chairman of the boys' work committee for the whole county.

From his close affiliation with and long residence in the county, his intense interest in boy life, his consecration to things religious, his pleasing personality, and general popularity, Mr. Maxwell is well fitted for his new calling.

Already the men and boys are rallying to his support and this gathering of fathers and sons will be making another impression of their esteem of good will.

There will be good things to eat, plenty of fine addresses, and inspiration of a big crowd, if present interest counts as any criterion.

Any reservation for plates should be sent to Mr. Owen A. Atwood before December 27, in order that the committee may know the number to provide for. This number is limited to two hundred.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT ST. MARK'S CHURCH

The regular Christmas service will be held at St. Mark's Episcopal church on Christmas day at 10 a. m. The special music will include Gounod's Nazareth with baritone solo by Mr. Morris Whitmoyer and chorus by full choir and the carol anthem "To Victory" by Neidlinger, with soprano solo by Mrs. W. J. Stowe and chorus.

The accompanists will be Mrs. D. H. Hislop on the piano and Mr. F. Bryan on the organ.

The sermon by the pastor, Rev. George E. Swan, will be the Christmas Message.

The service will last about an hour and a quarter, viz.: until 11:15.

Y. M. C. A. BANQUET WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT ONTARIO

At the county committee meeting held Dec. 8, at which time A. H. Maxwell, formerly of Upland and now residing at Pomona, was chosen as the new county secretary, it was decided to plan for a big county-wide banquet to be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 31—New Year's Eve—at the Congregational church, Ontario. E. C. Harwood is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The unique feature of the dinner is that it is to be a "Father and Son Banquet." Every man or boy, is one of the two and eligible to attend while there is room. Plates will be set for two hundred persons, and there will be inspirational addresses and a general good-fellowship time for all who attend.

Will Award Banners

It is hoped that every group of boys in the county engaged in Bible study may be able to interest enough fathers to bring them to this meeting.

A banner will be awarded to the group that has the best attendance, also to the high school which has the best attendance.

While the dinner will be the means of a general getting-together and acquainted, it will serve also as the means of an informal reception to the newly elected county secretary, A. H. Maxwell, well known in the county, having been a resident of Upland for the past five years, and one of its energetic and promising young business men.

GIVES MAN MATCH; THEN HE IS HELD UP

Harry Wright, for several months employed in the Fashion livery stables, was held up Monday night and robbed of several dollars and a watch fob.

In returning from Claremont Wright met a hobo on the road, who accosted him, asking for a match. Wright replied "sure," and reached for a match. The next thing he knew, he says, he was looking into the barrel of a revolver, and the robber said, "I guess I'll just hold you up, too."

Wright immediately put up his hands, and the robber took his money. He secured the watch fob, but luckily Wright did not have his watch with him.

Wright drove to his home here, and reported the matter to the officers. No trace of the thief has been found.

MOTHER OF J. J. ATWOOD INJURED.

The aged mother of J. J. Atwood met with a serious accident Saturday. While walking across a hardwood floor Mrs. Atwood slipped and fell, breaking her left limb near the hip. On account of Mrs. Atwood's advanced age, which is 81 years, the family are very much concerned about her recovery.

Mrs. Atwood was in the best of health at the time of the accident. She had just remarked a few days previously how well she felt and how she was enjoying herself.

The doctor states that it will be fully six weeks before Mrs. Atwood will be able to be about, but on account of her health being good it is hoped that a more speedy recovery will take place. She is resting as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

R. F. GRISTY MEETS DEATH IN ONTARIO

A Heavily Charged Wire Kills Trouble Shooter.

R. F. Gristy, popular employee of the Ontario Power Company met death in a most shocking manner last Friday when he went to assist Mr. Dibble of Ontario who found that the wires in his barn were carrying an overload of electricity.

Entering the barn and turning on the switch he took hold of the light socket and as he stood on damp ground he was instantly killed, the exact amount of electricity passing through his body being unknown.

It seems that Dibble had been at the sub station a few days before and was so afraid of electricity that he would not enter the sub station and Gristy spoke of this peculiarity on the part of Dibble after the man had left the station.

When Mr. Dibble called for assistance later Gristy thought that the man was unduly alarmed and men of the Ontario Power Company are of the opinion that this made Gristy a little less particular than usual.

As soon as Dibble saw Gristy's condition he turned the switch off although in doing so he was severely burned, but all efforts to save Gristy were in vain.

Just how the wires in the barn came to be carrying so big a load with out blowing a fuse no one seems to know and the condition at the Dibble barn proved quite a mystery.

Funeral services were held from the Methodist church Saturday evening for the employees of the Ontario Power Company attending in a body and many beautiful floral designs were laid on the casket by co-workers of Gristy who had been so suddenly taken in his 18th year.

J. H. Flinn shipped the remains to Mrs. J. C. Gristy at Stevensville, Tex., and will arrive in that city Thursday night, which is the home of his mother.

Mr. Gristy resided here with his sister Mrs. Pearl Wilbourn.

ORANGE MOVEMENT NOW BEGINNING IN EARNEST

Packing houses of the O. K. Fruit Exchange in the Ontario-Cucamonga district, generally, have commenced operations in the handling of the 1913-14 citrus crop and according to Manager Harry B. Harlow, the season will probably be in full swing about the second week in January.

While most of the packing houses of the O. K. in Upland, Ontario, Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda are running now, comparatively little fruit is being handled at present, although some fruit is being picked at the present time and a few cars are being shipped.

Look for Better Market

It is thought that after the Christmas stock is cleaned up the market will probably improve, but it seems probable that there will be a slight slump before an improvement.

The fruit in this section is for the most part in splendid condition, both as to size, color and flavor and there is every indication that it will command a first-class price.

Just at present perhaps more lemons are being handled than oranges, but the rush will probably commence next month.

"HOLY NIGHT" GIVEN BY QUARTETTE AT THE M. E. CHURCH

Musical Talent of Upland Surprises Audience

Evening and Morning Choirs of the Methodist Church Give an Evening of Music. "Holy Night" Given by Quartette.

Although Upland has had many musical events by home talent, the observance of the Yuletide season in the churches surpasses of expectations. Last Sunday evening in the Methodist church a musical service was given and prior to the giving of the cantata "Holy Night," by Ashford, the evening choir under the direction of Miss Tubbs and accompanied on the piano by Miss Susie Haury, pleasantly surprised the audience by giving two selections, Miss Tubbs singing a soprano solo during one of them. The evening choir of this church has been rapidly going to the front and Miss Tubbs plans on still greater things for the organization. Following the selections of the evening choir the double quartette, which is known as the morning choir, and is under the direction of Mrs. W. M. Dundas, who sings the leading soprano part in the quartette, gave the cantata "Holy Night," by Ashford, and the members of the quartette should indeed be proud of what they accomplished Sunday evening, for their music was of a superior quality, each voice being of a true tone and under perfect control.

Mrs. Dundas, who sang the soprano solos, has a rich voice of a superior sweetness, while Miss Billington, who sang the alto parts, showed plainly to her audience that she is possessed of unusual ability. The members of the double quartette were Mr. W. K. Beattie, Mr. J. D. Mehl, Mrs. Florence Dundas, Miss Inez Johnstone, Miss Susie Billington, Miss Helen Hartley, Mr. Ralph Maurer, Mr. A. H. Johnson.

The members of the evening choir who sang Sunday night were: Miss Tubbs, Miss Pauline Hartley, Miss Gladys Riley, Miss Iva Goodson, Miss Lizzie Fossett, Miss Ruby Mehl, Miss Florence Mehl, Mrs. Bertha L. Sampson, Miss Blanche Wright, Miss Esther Winn, Miss Eva Speck, Miss Mary Harmon, Miss Maud Colborn, Mr. F. W. Young, Mr. T. J. Cromer, Mr. S. E. Kirk, Mr. R. Manley, Dr. W. H. Clark, Mr. T. E. Ketcheson, Mr. Cleo Moser.

HEAD-ON COLLISION ON P. E. UPLAND-POMONA DIVIS'N INJURES MANY

Collision Victims Will All Recover from Injuries

A Misunderstanding of Orders Causes Collision in Which Several Are Injured. A. V. Neff and J. F. Sawyer Hurt.

A dense fog with a misunderstanding of orders resulted in the first serious accident in many months on the Pomona-Upland line early Tuesday morning, and the injury of 20 or more persons while six were seriously hurt, necessitating care of physicians.

The car leaving Upland for Pomona at 6:12 a. m. was in charge of Conductor Beal and Motorman Hooper, and was carrying some 20 passengers. Conductor Beal received orders over the phone and proceeded on the way to Pomona.

As the car was picking up speed there loomed up in the dense fog before the vision of Motorman Hooper the forward end of a freight train and with brakes screeching for relief, passengers excited beyond description and exerting every possible effort to prevent a toll of death, Motorman Hooper brought his car to a stop, and when the train struck head-on he had his car in the reverse, and moving slowly backward.

The work train was moving at a lively clip and the impact was so great when the collision occurred that a glass in the front window of the passenger car was broken and glass flew in every direction injuring many passengers, while Motorman Fitzgerald who was "dead-headed" to his morning run was sitting on a front seat, jumped from the car and three ribs were broken.

Numerous passengers were badly cut, among them being A. V. Neff and J. F. Sawyer. Mr. Neff's nose being injured while Mr. Sawyer, city marshal, received a severe gash in the head from flying glass.

The floor of the car following the accident was literally soaked in blood, as many passengers were severely cut and blood flowed from their injuries most freely. The injured immediately went to their homes or to the offices of their physicians, where they were cared for.

Judging from the condition of the car after the accident the bumper with which the Pacific Electric cars are equipped was the thing that saved the passengers, and especially the motorman, from death. The bumper, although broken into, was strong enough to resist some of the impact and although where Motorman Hooper sat, as well as the controller box and air control are twisted and bent from their fastening, he was not injured and had Motorman Fitzgerald held his seat he doubtless would have been less injured.

The adjuster for the Pacific Electric was in town soon after the wreck and saw to it that all injured received plenty of medical attention. Both A. V. Neff and J. F. Sawyer are getting on fairly well this morning. Neff being able to be up and about, while Mr. Sawyer is suffering considerably from a badly wrenched back.

GETS MARRIAGE LICENSE WITHOUT HER CONSENT

A marriage license, seemingly taken out without the knowledge of the girl, has stirred Cucamonga. Charles H. Cunningham of Ontario is named in the license as the bridegroom and Miss Sadie B. Fogg of Cucamonga as the prospective bride.

T. A. Fogg of Cucamonga, the girl's father, thinks Cunningham took out the license in a spirit of spite, the girl, it is said, having rejected his wooing. According to Fogg, Cunningham worked on the Fogg ranch at Cucamonga last summer and fell in love with the daughter of his employer. She did not reciprocate and, as a result, it is asserted, the laborer became incensed and journeyed to the county seat to procure a license.

Miss Fogg is quite upset about the affair.

BELIEVE SUSPECTS INNOCENT

It is thought now that the trio of suspects who were taken to the county jail, following the attempt to blow the safe at the plant of the Upland Feed & Fuel company of this city, a few nights ago, are probably not the real offenders.

It is found that the tools with which the bungling job of drilling the safe was done, were secured at the Upland foundry.

The robbers left a stick of dynamite, as well as their roll of blankets, under the porch of the company's building. The company had a safe blown a couple of years ago.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER, 25, 1913

PROUD indeed should each and every citizen be of the musical talent of the city, for last Sunday at the Presbyterian and Methodist churches two very difficult cantatas were given with surprising perfection. With the growth of Upland numerous people have become residents of the city who possess rare ability as musicians, while others who were reared here are developing into accomplished artists.

SPECIAL EDITIONS are coming to the exchange table of The News in large numbers and we note that our neighbor at Claremont, the Courier, issued a sixteen-page paper by way of a Christmas edition. The San Bernardino Sun, the San Bernardino Index and the Hemet News also issued Christmas editions, all of them being a credit, not only to the newspapers, but the business men of their respective communities.

AND J. PLUVIUS gave us another call and it is again that we are under great obligations, for he came as a gentleman and went away without creating a rough-house. As long as he visits us in this manner, well and good, but when he gets too fresh and shows an inclination to wash the orange groves down China way—well, he's going a bit too far, and we shall certainly do as they do in Spain. If any News readers are not familiar with what they do in Spain under such conditions the business office will inform you.

ONCE in a while we meet some one whose talking apparatus works overtime and in our marvelings at the rapid enunciation of words denoting that there is no constipation on language there we wonder why Edison made his phonograph. Every once in a while the Ruler of All Things seems to have created a man who can start her tongue going, go off and leave it, and on her return find the tongue still flopping at both ends. But then, a woman is a woman, while a cigar is a smoke and without the woman life would be a barren waste.

SINCE the announcement of C. D. Van Wie that he would become a candidate for supervisor from this district, many comments have been heard on every side by way of satisfaction as voters are generally realizing that no one in this section would make a better supervisor than would Mr. Van Wie. For several years Mr. Van Wie has been familiar with county affairs and he fully realizes the importance of each section having a supervisor who knows the needs of the county, as do the men who persuaded Mr. Van Wie to enter the race to represent this end of the county in the courthouse at San Bernardino. For several years Mr. Van Wie has been closely confined in office work and has put forth his best efforts to make the auditor's office of San Bernardino county one which the taxpayers shall be proud of, and that he has succeeded is the general opinion of the people familiar with county affairs. Mr. Van Wie is well known throughout the entire county and although it is some time before the primary election it is doubtful if a more capable man can be found to fill the position which, under the charter, is going to need a business man of experience who can view a condition from every point of view, form his opinions and carry out a systematic line of work in the board of supervisors. Let the west end of San Bernardino county center its energy toward electing Mr. Van Wie, for he's a man among men of the county, and will make this district an excellent supervisor.

SHALL the postoffice department receive and deliver letters addressed to Santa Claus? "was the momentous question put up to Postmaster General Burleson not long ago. The official answer was "Yes." So the Santa Claus letters this year are delivered at the nearest charitable institution at which Santa Claus has one of his many headquarters. That was an easy question for Postmaster General Burleson to answer. Now, however, he is up against a real hard one. The patron of the mails who wants to know is Lodema L. Hile. She is eight years old and she lives at Albion, Ill. Like a wise little lady she wrote directly to the postmaster general himself and put her question in the form of a petition. She wrote:

Please appoint a young Santa Claus. Grandpa says he used to come to his house when he was a little boy so he must be pretty old by this time and I'm afraid he's too old to come to my house.

Being a wise man, Postmaster General Burleson took no chances with a young woman of such shrewdness. He declined to commit the postoffice department further than to write to little Miss Hile that a personal representative of Santa Claus would attend to her wants next year. Of course, had not Postmaster General Burleson been so wound up with red tape he could have given little Miss Hile a very different answer. And we can imagine that he would have answered about like this:

Miss Lodema L. Hile, Albion, Ill.

Dear Lodema: Your grandpa is right; Santa Claus used to come to my grandpa's house, too, when he was a little boy. But he used to look just the same when your grandpa and mine were little boys as he does now, white hair and white whiskers and all. I don't believe he's a bit older now than he was then. Of course, every Christmas he's one year older, but he never seems to grow old the way our grandpas do. I guess he's like Columbia and Uncle Sam—they never seem to grow old, either. Anyway, Santa Claus is just as lively and busy and jolly as ever. I think it is safe to let him keep on running Christmas till he tells us he is old and tired and wants to quit. Don't you? Your sincere friend,

ALBERT SIDNEY BURLESON.

It is to be hoped that Santa Claus' "personal representative" to whom Postmaster General Burleson entrusts the case of little Miss Hile is a man of some considerable intellectual quickness and resource. Otherwise he may get the postoffice department and his chief into trouble—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

THE NEWS at this time desires to extend to its readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and we do so with all seriousness, for the chances for a Happy New Year are indeed big for success in the coming twelve months looms big on the horizon. During the past twelve months, in what was supposed to be a bad condition, we have done much for the good and general upbuilding of the city, and let us, during the year 1914 put a stronger shoulder to the wheel and altogether pull one way for the good of the town which is recognized as one of the best in Southern California.

At Christmas Time
"Merry Christmas!" (Author of the expression unknown; it was probably overworked as far back as I. A. D.)

At Christmas play, and make good cheer.
For Christmas comes but once a year.

—Tusser.

Better a two-bit card with the true Christmas spirit than a parcels post sack full of junk and no real sentiment behind it.—Shakespeare.

"Twas Christmas broad'd the mightiest ale;
"Twas Christmas told the merriest tale;
A Christmas gambol oft could cheer
The poor man's heart through half the year.

"Twas the night before Christmas.
When all through the flat
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even the cat.
No stocking is hung

Can't Stay Away

Among the recent distinguished tourist arrivals in our city, of which no mention has as yet been made in the society columns, is that of our well-known feathered friend, Mr. One-Leg Blackbird. The sleek, saucy little fellow has just returned from quite a protracted stay in—the Lord knows where, and hops about on his one trusty foot with all the sang froid (whatever that is) of a highly privileged character. Anyway, his presence lends force to the statement that "everybody comes back to Upland."

Classics and Cakes

That this is an age of short-cuts and abbreviations is plainly evidenced by the frequency with which one hears the name of the city of Los Angeles referred to as "Los." It is indeed a wonderful metamorphosis from the original musical "Neustra Senora Regina De Los Angeles" of the founding to the hammer-and-tongs "Los" of today. In fact, the "loss" is almost irreparable. But speaking of abbreviations, reminds us of the old days of the Saddle Rock restaurant on Ninth street, this city, where the language was chopped to the last syllable. A customer would enter in the morning and give an order something like this:
"I'd like a plate of wheat cakes. Have them well done, please."
First Waiter (passing order):
—"Stack o' wheats—well done!"
Second Waiter (still passing):
—"Stack—well done!"
First Chef (third relay):
—"Stack—well!"
Griddle Chef—"S-t-a-c-k!"

Hard Luck Christmas

After reading the editorial in last week's News regarding the recent destruction of an old-time job press, we are of the opinion that the festive holiday season is not the luckiest time of the year around print shops.

This opinion was strengthened by finding among the old files of The Upland Avalanche, date of December 22, 1873, the following editorial grievance:

"We shall have to ask the indulgence of our readers for the appearance of the paper this week. We had planned on issuing a sort of special edition—in fact, had it half completed—but Fate is against us, sure enough this Christmas. We are extremely fortunate to be able to get out this half sheet. Everything was moving smoothly until last Saturday, when our foreman, Sam Deviney, and compositor, Jimmy Caslon, took a sudden notion to go fishing over in the Santa Ana river. We thought they would probably go by way of China—and we warned them accordingly. But alas! they have not yet returned, and we fear the worst. Jimmy may straggle back this week, but Sam is good for a month. They evidently tried to send a comp over to help us out. But the besotted individual (if he was a "print") was so sizzled up with dago red when he arrived that he couldn't tell a lower case "a" from the Fourth Dimension, and after deliberately stepping in the ink keg, fell into the paper heap back of the big press and went to sleep. We have done the best we could to get out some kind of a paper, but we know that the sheet looks like a cross between the sack of Rome and the breaking up of a hard winter. One of the things that hurts most is the fact that we have to run this apologetic tale of woe in place of a masterful editorial we had written (and set up) on "Why Christmas Should Be the Happiest Time of the Year." Curse the printing business anyway!"

THE CHRISTMAS STAR

"Am the root and the offspring of David, and the bright and morning Star." Rev. 22:16.
"The people which sat in darkness saw great light." Mat. 4:16.

By the willow-fringed rivers of Babylon, long years ago,
The prophets foretold a "great light" ever changeless its glow,
Whose radiance would shine on all nations anear and afar—
Clear radiance of Truth, typified by the light of a star.

Ah, dear Christmas story, thy pages are tenderly bright;
Thy pathos and glory are written in letters of light;
The truth of thy tidings revealed in Judea afar,
Has circled the earth in the light of that one, lone brave star.

O'er distant Judea the shadows of night softly crept,
And cradled in darkness . . . the City of Bethlehem slept.
Low over the hills the moon hung her pale silver shield,
And shepherds were faithful to watch o'er their flocks in the field.

We all know the story—the wondrous light from above—
The song of the angels that swept the sweet harpstrings of love;
The "tidings of great joy" that dawned with the first Christmas morn;
"Unto you in the City of David, a Saviour is born."

"Christ the Lord!" King of kings, Prince of peace, whom the prophets foretold!
Thy royal divinity shined not earth's jewels or gold.
The gems of thy innocence, gentleness, meekness and might,
Shone clear in the crown of thy love on that first Christmas night.

Thou didst come to fulfil God's great promise to heal and to save;
Thou "the Truth and the Life" that hath victory over the grave!
Thou "the Way!" May we follow where thy guiding footsteps have led—
Thou "the Bread of Life!" We pray thee "evermore give us the Bread."

Kind thoughts, loving words, tender greetings are winging their way—
While the Bright Morning Star changeless glows—and the angels sing still:
"All glory to God—unto men be his peace and good-will."

—Kathleen MacFarland.

TIE FOR FIRST IN RELIABILITY RUN.

The first week in December found a notable victory for the Buick in the East with two Buicks tied for first place in the 500-mile New York reliability run just finished there. The run covered a period of three days and was unique in that the start and finish each day was at the same point in New York city, although each day's run covered a different route. Each car contained in addition to the driver an observer who kept close tab on the performance of the car which he occupied as well as any car on the road they were passing which seemed to be experiencing trouble. Each day found a new observer in the car and at no time did an observer appointed by a company ride in one of the cars of his company. The super-veillance of the servers was very strict, both on the day and night controls. The drivers were forbidden to approach their cars unless under the watchful eye of the observer.

Although there were but eleven entries in the run, in many ways it was one of the most interesting and remarkable runs ever held in the country, being the first time in the history of such runs that penalization for defective starting and lighting was found against the cars.

An interesting feature of the run was the brake test, which took place at the expiration of the third day. In this test the cars had to stop within a distance of fifty feet at the speed that they were required to average in the contest. The greatest mileage per gallon was made by the tow Buicks, No. 3 Buick averaging nineteen miles per gallon. Absolutely no adjustments of any sort or description were made on the Delco equipment of the Buicks.

For the benefit of the newspaper men of California, the National orange show to be held at San Bernardino Feb. 18 to 25, is to inaugurate a citrus fruit educational bureau, in the charge of leading fruit men and experts.

The California Press association has accepted the invitation of the National orange show to attend the exposition. The newspaper men will arrive in a special train and will be the guests of the exposition. From San Bernardino the party is to go to the Imperial valley.

In addition to the social features to be arranged for the visiting newspaper men and their families, the orange show is to be more than a mere sight-seeing excursion. The party will be placed in charge of citrus fruit experts, during a portion of their inspection of the exposition and its millions of samples of oranges and lemons, and if there is anything about California's greatest industry the newspaper men do not know they will be instructed.

F. W. Richardson, of Berkeley, president of the association, has written A. G. Kendall, president of the orange show, of the acceptance of the invitation.

ACCUSES POMONANS OF BEING HOGGISH.

The people of Lordsburg are not exactly crazy about the idea of calling the proposed new auto racing track in that section the "Pomona Speedway," according to the Lordsburg-LaVerne Leader. In discussing the proposed speedway, the Leader has the following to say:

The one matter which has not yet been decided upon is the name by which the new speedway shall be designated. The promoters recognize the fact that the Lordsburg track already has a wide reputation as the fastest dirt motorcycle course in the West, and on this account to retain the name Lordsburg would be an advantage. It seems also essential in order to designate the locality. On the other hand Pomona people, awake to the fact that the name will carry a big advertising value and pursuing their usual selfish policy of trying to hog everything in sight, want the name "Pomona Speedway" to be used.

To name the new racing course after Pomona—four miles away—would be about the last straw with the people of this section. And how incongruous! It would be the "Pomona Speedway" at Lordsburg, or the Pomona races—at Lordsburg.

For a long time certain newspaper writers in Pomona have made themselves ridiculous and have stirred up considerable feeling in outside towns against Pomona by trying to paste the Pomona label on everything in this part of the county. They refer to the China sugar factory as a "Pomona institution," they claim every improvement of consequence in Lordsburg, La Verne, San Dimas, Claremont, Upland. They make long lists of really deals in a dozen different localities and publish them at home and in Los Angeles papers as Pomona transactions.

Now Pomona is all right. It has some fine people and some fine business men. We like the town and we want our people to buy there in preference to Los Angeles whenever they cannot supply their needs thru the Lordsburg stores. But the fact remains that this near-sighted policy of the Pomona scribes—which they apparently look upon as clever—is stirring up a feeling that has already cost Pomona merchants a pretty penny in trade, and the resentment is growing more aggravated. If Pomona wants the continued good will and overflow patronage of her neighbors, she needs to call off her dogs.

JAIL LABOR PROVES SUCCESS. PLAN TO PAY MEN.

With about forty men at work on the road being built near Fontana by Supervisor Jones, using jail labor, only two men have refused to work honestly, and not a prisoner has attempted to escape, although at times they are employed a mile away from the guards. Indeed, two weeks have demonstrated that he guards are rather foremen than anything else, for guards are hardly needed.

It would be difficult to say whether the jail officials and men in Sheriff Ralph's office or the supervisors are the more pleased at the showing for while the experiment has not progressed to the point of affording absolute conclusions, the indications are all most favorable.

Jailer T. O. Carter was before the supervisors informally Monday to discuss the question of compensation, for while no action has been taken, it was in the mind of most of the supervisors that if the prisoners made good and did good work, they should not work for nothing. "They are sentenced to the county jail—not to work on the roads," commented one member of the board, "and while the law permits us to work them, I believe they ought to have something 'on the side' if they do fair work, and the county can afford to pay it. If they stay in jail, we have to feed and lodge them. If they go out and work on the roads, our expenses are little more, and we get the work. And the men will work much better if they feel that at the end of a 30- or 60-days sentence they have $15 or $30 in their pocket with which to face the world again."

Enough has been said about it that the men at the camp think they are to be paid a small sum at the expiration of their sentence.

"Will you pay it out of your road fund?" was an inquiry aimed at Supervisor Jones.

"I had thought I would, and judging from results thus far, my district will be getting big value for the money," he replied.

NEW REGISTER IS IN ORDER NEW YEARS.

One hundred and twenty-seven election precincts are not enough to accommodate the voters of San Bernardino county, and immediately following the highway bond election, about February 17, supervisors will order a new precincting of the county. Supervisor Glover says Redlands will need five new voting precincts, in addition to the 18 now established. San Bernardino's 22 may be increased to 25 or 30, and other cities and districts of the county accordingly.

New registration, which date from January 1, will therefore be discouraged until after the February bond election. No one already registered need register again for that election. County Clerk Post brought the subject to the attention of the supervisors Monday and discussed it with them. He also asked for a new set of precinct filing books, and Supervisor Glover will investigate the prices and report.

Under the law, a new register is required every two years, which means that all citizens must register again, but the present registration, while theoretically cancelled January 1, is good for all special municipal or school elections up to the primary election in September.

A PLAIN STATEMENT!

Californians, native and adopted, are particularly proud of their state because of its multiplied merits. Possibly without safe contradiction, it may be said that John Steven McGroarty has done more to reveal to Californians the wonderful history and romance of the years which have passed than any other one man.

In his great pageant drama, "The Mission Play," the wonderful early history of California is depicted. In his history of California, entitled "California: Its History and Romance," he tells the whole beautiful and enticing story in one volume of ten chapters. This book contains 120,000 words, thoroughly indexed. In the West Coast Magazine, of which he is editor, California is continually written of with regard to her various phases.

New plays are in the making by Mr. McGroarty, all of which deal with California and her wonderful past and present. All this work is based on his single-volume history of California.

There has been a great demand for a cheaper edition of McGroarty's history by students (to whom it is of especial value), club women and business men. The retail price is $3.50 per volume. For many reasons, which we are unable to give here, we cannot publish a cheaper edition, thus reducing the price. But the demand has been and is insistent, therefore:

This newspaper, with others, realizing the great educational value of McGroarty's work to California in general and their subscribers in particular, have made it possible for you to secure McGroarty's guaranteed $3.50 edition of "California: Its History and Romance," for just one-half price, namely: $1.75. There is not a single home in California not already supplied that ought not to add this book to its home treasures. From grammar-school students up, it is of inestimable value.

THIS OFFER IS LIMITED, AND WILL BE PROMPTLY WITHDRAWN WHEN ITS TERM HAS EXPIRED. The holiday season is soon upon us. The tens of thousands of tourists will be among us. We cannot afford to make this great concession to them. NOW is your time to buy—AT ONCE. You are not limited as to the number of copies you take. If you want to lay several away for the holiday season do so, but do so now while the opportunity is yours.

One individual, last season, bought over thirty copies at the regular price—$3.50—to send to Eastern friends, saying: "It is the finest present I ever saw for my Eastern friends, whom I am trying to bring to California. In my own home, I could not do without it. It's my California dictionary."

Clip this statement, take or mail it to your paper together with $1.75 and get your copy. This order cannot be filled outside of the office of the paper from which it is clipped, as the paper is making a sacrifice to make this possible for you.

Guaranteed regular gold-stamped and tipped $3.50 edition, for a very short period, at $1.75. Place your order at once without fail to insure yourself advantage of this "special offer."

Frances Paul Girls Hostesses—A very pleasant compliment was given the singers of the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, when the Frances Paul Girls served them lunch after the program of Christmas music. The pretty room of the Frances Paul Girls was simply but effectively decorated in the Christmas colors. Cards with sprigs of holly and mistletoe marked the places.

Mrs. Paul thanked the friends from other churches and the singers of the Presbyterian church for the music so beautifully rendered. Director Howell and Rev. Stone responded.

The delicious lunch was served by the Misses Clara Phillips, Lela McCrellan, Maude Monroe, Elizabeth Jones, Ruth Duncan, Blanche Miller, and Eva Gerry. The singers by a rising vote thanked Mrs. Paul and the girls for their thoughtfulness. The lunch was particularly helpful in that it made it possible for the singers to attend other services in the evening. For many this would have been impossible had it been necessary to go home for lunch.

In Honor of Mrs. Sampson—For at least the pastor's wife came into her own when the ladies of the Methodist church gave a Christmas shower to Mrs. Sampson and her husband last Thursday. The combined sections of the Ladies' Aid met at the church parlors and when all preparations were ready the pastor was summoned "to give his advice" upon some weighty matter. The meeting forthwith adjourned to the room where the presents had been arranged and "There shall be showers of blessing" was sung while the pastor was preparing his advice. The gifts were many, so many that they cannot be numbered. There was much table linen. Other supplies of all sorts were given.

Coffee and doughnuts were served at the close of the meeting. The ladies of Section Four of the aid, and Mrs. Tuttle, who planned the affair, and all who took part are to be congratulated.

To Give Christmas Dinner—Miss Clara William and Mrs. William Trunkfield will entertain with a Christmas dinner at the home of Miss Williams' father, Delos Williams, on Christmas day. The invited guests will be: Ralph Williams of Berkeley, O. K. and Mrs. Paddock and Miss Fern Paddock, Mrs. Minnie King and son Roy of Sawtelle, Mrs. J. Rogers and son Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Williams, Mrs. L. Williams, Delos Williams, Fred Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Trunkfield and family.

In Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ashmun—Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Dobbins will entertain Christmas day in honor of Mrs. Dobbins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ashmun of Yucaipa, Cal., who are here for the holidays, and Mr. Dobbins' sisters, Miss Elsie Dobbins of Los Angeles, and Mrs. E. A. Miller and husband of Los Angeles.

"Merry Wives"

The Merry Wives Embroidery club was most happily entertained last Friday afternoon by Mrs. W. L. Brown assisted by Mrs. A. H. Johnson. Wreaths of holly and bouquets of roses were used in decoration. Sandwiches and coffee with pumpkin pie and whipped cream were served after the time was spent doing fancy work. The guests of Mrs. Brown were Mrs. Aaron Brest, Mrs. D. D. Crew, Mrs. Paul Cushing, Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Mrs. Geo. Gregg, Mrs. Walter Shug, Mrs. Perry Long, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. A. H. Johnson, Mrs. E. B. Reynolds, Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mrs. N. G. Pehl, Mrs. W. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. C. M. Sikes, Mrs. W. C. Cline, Mrs. J. M. Collins, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen.

Silver Tea

A silver tea was served at the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon by the Ladies' Aid, where tea was sold in small cups which were taken home as souvenirs. Most of the tea donated to the bazaar was gotten rid of that afternoon. Two hundred dollars were donated to the church fund by the aid from the proceeds of the bazaar.

"Fancy Work" Club

Mrs. R. C. Norton was hostess to the Fancy Work club on Friday of last week. Embroidery work passed the afternoon away pleasantly. The members present were Mrs. George Cable, Mrs. LeRoy Bradley, Mrs. A. L. Palis, Mrs. S. G. Moore, Mrs. John Rarick, Mrs. M. F. Palmer, Mrs. Reid Bordwell, Mrs. J. B. Goodrich, Mrs. J. P. Sawyer.

Odd Fellows Hosts

The local Odd Fellows did themselves proud Tuesday night when they were hosts to their wives and the Rebekahs and the Rebekahs' husbands. A short session of the lodge was held after which the guests were invited to "march right out again," when they were taken to the Lyric theatre where they were guests of Messrs. Whitmoyer and Geer, who had thoughtfully brought out a special reel for their benefit. Following the show they were taken back to the hall where tamales and coffee were served to over fifty people. A social hour followed.

House Party

A jolly, happy crowd of young people were taken to Camp Baldy on Monday by stage where they were the guests of Frank and Herbert McCulloch. Also they got pretty well showered on the way up but that did not dampen the spirits of the crowd. The first day was spent indoors because of the rain and the evening was given over to dancing and fun with a program given by the guests. On Tuesday a trip was taken up to the snow where snowballs were used freely. They were returned home Tuesday evening well and happy and enjoyed the McCulloch boys and their parents as hosts. The young people enjoying the trip were Misses Edna West, Ruth Duncan, Marjorie Ware, Irene Smith, Beatrice Smith, Lois Craig and Viola Manker of Upland; Florence Kirkpatrick, Marjorie Midgach and Naomi Christensen of Ontario.

tario; Eva Dole of Los Angeles; Messrs. Gene Nesbit, Earl Swan, Franker, Dean Crew, Alld Conch of Upland; Edward Gushee and William Wood of Ontario.

LOSE THEIR NERVE

Burglars at a late hour Friday night attempted to crack a safe in the office of the Upland Feed and Fuel Company, and, probably frightened away, left their cracksmen's tools, dynamite and crows behind them, after having succeeded in boring a small hole in the safe.

Prior to their attempt at the safe glars are thought to have entered the office of the Upland Foundry company, where a desk was rifled and a six-shooter taken.

Most of the tools used in the attempted safe-cracking were stolen from the Manker, Shug factory and this leads the police to think that the present job may have been done by the same parties, who, some two years ago cracked the safe in the same office and secured their tools from the same place.

It is known positively that the entrance to the office of the Feed and Fuel company was made after ten o'clock, for officers visited the place at that hour. It is possible that the cracksmen were frightened away by the nightwatchman, who makes his round every two hours. It is thought by not a few that the men who attempted the Upland job are the same who cracked a safe in Pomona the night before.

SEEK SLAYER HERE

The sheriff of Riverside county, accompanied by a number of his deputies, was in town Monday morning, on the lookout for a Mexican, suspected of being implicated in the slaying of the marshal of Corona, who was killed Sunday night. The party searched here quite thoroughly, but so far as reported, found no trace of the slayer.

FINAL NUMBER IN COURSE

With the appearance of McPherson, baritone singer and Collison, pianist, the popular concert course for Upland and Ontario will come to a close. The music presented to the people of this community during this series of concerts has been of the highest class, and the enthusiastic throngs that have greeted the performers each time has been a great factor in the success of the concerts.

The expenses of the course have been large, especially for the first number by the People's Orchestra and the Brahms Trio. However, enough season tickets were sold to cover all expenses of the course, and there will be some surplus from the proceeds at the door each night. The net proceeds will be divided between the chambers of commerce of Upland and Ontario and Chaffey Union High School. The high school people are corresponding with some of the best musical organizations in Los Angeles, and hope that before the winter is over two or three especially fine programs can be offered to the people here. There is a possibility that the Ladies' Orchestra that has received so much prominence in Los Angeles may be secured for a concert soon. The program Friday, January 24, will be a good one. Mr. McPherson, the singer, is one of the most popular of the Los Angeles musical artists. Mr. Collison is organist in one of the great churches in the city, and is a master at the piano.

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS DINNER FOR THE ASYLUM INMATES

Nearly 2,000 inmates of the Patton asylum will enjoy a special Christmas dinner at the institution at Patton Thursday noon and in the evening a special entertainment will be provided for the inmates when a musical program will be rendered beside recitations and songs.

The Christmas dinner will have for the piece de resistance chicken instead of turkey, the chickens being raised at the hospital farm.

Presents will be distributed to every patient, some $200 having been expended for this purpose, in addition to the hundreds of presents sent by friends of the inmates.

The county jail prisoners numbering about 100 will also have a special dinner of roast pork, apple sauce, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie, coffee and bread.

NEW WELL LOCATED

At the well of the Upland Foothill Water company on Twenty-first street, formerly known as the Bodenhamer well, a splendid supply of water has now been brought in. The old well was capable of something like 60 inches of water, but this was not sufficient, and drifts were run away from the main shaft, at a considerable depth.

At a point exactly where W. J. Bodenhamer, the original locator of the well, had told them they would encounter the additional water, the flow was found, and it filled the drifts and shaft so rapidly that the workmen were obliged to come to the surface and stop operations. Since that time, in spite of a steady pumping of some 75 inches, the water is not lowered in the shaft.

In an ordinarily wet year, it is estimated the well is capable of pumping 125 to 150 inches.

A NOTE OF THANKS
The crushing blow we have received in the tragic death of our beloved brother, who, without a moment's warning, was taken from us, has been hard to bear; but our grief has been somewhat alleviated by the manifestation of sympathy, and kindly acts toward us, and respect for our dear brother's memory, and we now profoundly thank our kind friends who knew our brother best, and those employed with him, for all their generous attention and aid in this our great affliction.

CHAFFEY LEADS THE CITRUS BELT DEBATING LEAGUE.

While the teachers and pupils of Chaffey high have been enjoying the vacation, a few of the boys with Miss Avery, the debating instructor, have been putting in a lot of time preparing for the next league debate. By a clear sweep with two victories against San Bernardino at the time of the last debate Chaffey kept a perfect percentage, and put San Bernardino at the bottom of the list. The same evening Riverside and Redlands tied with the home team victor at each school.

This gives those two schools each 50 per cent, and leaves Chaffey with a fine lead. The next debates will be on the Hetch Hetchy question, and the Chaffey boys are working hard to keep a perfect record. There has been much interest in the Hetch Hetchy controversy, and though President Wilson signed the bill that gives San Francisco the right to impound and use the water in that valley, there are many who feel that a great mistake has been made. Frank Nichols and Dewitt Scott, who put up a great debate at San Bernardino, are among those who are working on the new question.

BUICK

Buick motor cars for 1914 are still being built around the famous Overhead Valve Motor; differing somewhat in appearance from the handsome models of 1913, but identical in performance with the Buicks of the past. Changes have been few, but refinements have been made and details added for greater beauty and convenience, including the handier left-side drive and the simpler center control. But the fundamentals of Buick construction are unchanged—unchangeable.

In addition—the Delco System of electric self-ignition and lighting is built into every motor as an integral part and included without additional cost.

A year ago, when untried, improved self-starters were being bolted onto many an excellent car in any available place—a source of bitter disappointment in thousands of cases—the Buick management took a firm stand. It announced that no self-starter would be incorporated in any Buick car until a starter had been found as good as the Buick car itself.

CHILD WITHOUT A BRAIN

The German medical press records the remarkable case of a child which lived for nearly four years without any trace of a forebrain. Neurologists explain that the case demonstrates the absolute dependence of human beings on the fore or semi-forebrain, and shows that a human cannot carry on the ordinary processes necessary for his preservation without it. The fish or frog without the forebrain has greater capability than had the child in question. This child revealed no trace whatever of this vital brain section, so its nervous system was absolutely similar to that of a fish, though the latter is capable of performing all the vital functions necessary for nutrition and self-defense.

The case of the child is especially noteworthy because of the long duration of its life. In other cases the brainless life lasted only for a few days, and the movements of the child did not differ in any respects from those of a normal child.

THE MELTING OF MOLLY

By MARIA THOMPSON DAVIESS

Copyright, 1912, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

LEAF THIRD.

Billy's Apology.

"MOLLY, Molly," he said with a perfect rapture of chuckles in his voice, "now you look just as pretty as you do when you go to bed—all white all over. You can kiss my kiss spot a hundred times while I bear hug you for that nice hot black dress." And before any stern person could have stopped us I was on my knees on the grass kissing my fill from the "kiss spot" on the back of his neck, while he hugged all the starch out of the summer before last.

And Dr. John sat down on the bench quick and laughed out loud one of the very few times I ever heard him do it. He was looking down at us, but I did not laugh up into his eyes. I was afraid I felt it was safer to go on kissing the kiss spot for the present, anyway.

"Bill," he said, with his voice dancing, "that's the most effective apology I ever heard. You were sorry to some point."

Then suddenly Billy stiffened right in my arms and looked me straight in the face and said in the doctor's own brisk tones, even with his cupid mouth set in the same straight line:

"I say I'm sorry, Molly, but d—n that man, and I'll get him yet!"

What could we say? What could we do? We didn't try. I bussed myself in trying the string on Billy's blouse that had come untied in the bear hug, and the doctor suddenly discovered the letter on the bench. I saw him see it without looking in his direction at all.

"And how many pounds are we near the string bean state of existence, Mrs. Molly?" he asked me before I had finished tying the blouse, if the nicest voice in the world, fairly crackling with friendship and good humor and hateful things like that. Why I should have wanted him to buff over that letter is more than I can say. But I did, and he did.

"Over twenty, and most of the time I am so hungry I could eat Aunt Adelaide. I dream about Billy, fried with cream gravy," I answered as I kissed again the back of the head that was beginning to nod down against my breast. Long shadows lay across the garden, and the white-headed old snow-bell was signaling out of the dusk to a Dorothy Perkins down the walk in a scandalous way. At best spring is just the world's matchmaking old chaperon and ought to be watched. I still sat on the grass, and I began to cuddle Billy's bare knees in the skirt of my dress so the chiggers couldn't get at them.

"But, Mrs. Molly, isn't it worth it all?" asked the doctor as he bent over toward us and looked down with something wonderful and kind in his eyes that seemed to rest on us like a benediction. "You have been just as plucky as a girl can be and in only a little over two months you have grown as light footed and hearty as a boy. I think nothing could be lovelier than you are right now, but you can get off those other few pounds if you want to. You know, don't you, that I have known how hard some of it was, and I haven't been able to eat as much as I usually do thinking how hungry you are? But isn't it all worth it? I think it is. Alford Bennett is a very great man, and it is right that he should have a very lovely wife to go out into the world with him. And as lovely as you are I think it is wonderful of you to make all this sacrifice to be still lovelier for him. I am glad I can help you, and it has taught me something to see how how faithful a woman can be across years and then in this smaller thing. Now give me Billy and you get your apple and toast. Don't forget to take your letter in out of the dew." I sat perfectly still and held Billy tighter in my arms as I looked up at his father, and then after I had thought as long as I could stand it I spoke right out at him as usual and as bold, and I don't to this minute know why.

"Nobody in the world ever doubted that a woman could be faithful to," I said as I let him take Billy out of my arms at last. "Faithfulness is what a woman must have, only it takes a man to pick his poetry." With which I marched into the house and left him standing with Billy in his arms. I hope dumfounded. I didn't look back to see I always leave that man's presence so mad I can never look back at him. And wouldn't it make any woman rage to have a man pick out another man for her to be faithful to when she hadn't made any decision about it herself?

I wonder just how old Judge Wade is? I believe I will make up with Aunt Adelaide enough before I go to bed to find out why he has never married. Men are very strange people. They are like those horrible suns in algebra that you think about and worry about and cry about and try to get help from other women about, and then, all of a sudden X works itself out into perfectly good sense. Not that I thought much about Mr. Carter, poor man! When he wasn't right around I felt it best to forget him as much as I could, but it seems hard for other women to let you forget either your husband or theirs.

I know now that I really never got any older than the poor, foolish, eight years child that Aunt Adelaide married off, "safe," all the time I was the "refugee" sort of wife. I would sit and listen while the other wives talked over the men in utter bewilderment and most times terror then I would force myself to a little more forgetting and poor Mr. Carter must have suffered the consequences. But all that was a mild sort of exasperation to what a widow has to go through with in the matter of, of well I think hazing is about the best name to give it.

The Most Subdued Billy I Ever Saw

"Molly Carter," said Mrs. Johnson just day before yesterday, after the white dress Judge Wade episode that Aunt Adelaide had gone to all the friends up and down the street to be consoled about, "if you haven't got sense enough to appreciate your present blissful condition somebody ought to operate on your mind."

I was tempted to say, "Why not my heart?" I was glad she didn't know how good that heart did feel under my tucker when the boy brought that basket of fish from Judge Wade's fishing trip Saturday. I have many memories not to blame any more at a woman who has never been in love with a man who loves her. Lots of them have been married for years. I said just as innocently as the soft face of a pan of cream and went on darning one of Billy's socks.

"Well, be that as it may, they are the blessed members of the women tribe," she answered, looking at me sharply. "Now I have often told Mr. Johnson— But here we were interrupted by the rehearsal of a glorious scrap by the appearance of Aunt Bettie Pollard, and with her came a long, tall, lovely vision of a woman in the most wonderful close-fitting dress and hat that you wanted to eat on sight. I hated her instantly with the most intense adoration that made me want to lie down at her feet, and also made me feel like I had gained all the more than twenty pounds that I have shaved off me and doubled them on again. I would have liked to lead her that minute into Dr. John's office and just to have looked at him and said one word, 'string bean'!"

Aunt Betty introduced her as Miss Chester from Washington.

"Oh my dear Mrs. Carter, how glad I am to meet you," she said as she lowered over me in a without a word, and her voice was lovely and cool almost to shyness. "I am the bearer of so many gracious messages that I am anxious to deliver them safely to you. Six weeks ago I left Alfred Bennett in Paris, and really really his greeting to you almost amounted to a stunner message. He came down to Cherbourg to see me off, and almost the last thing he said to me was, 'Now don't fail to see Mrs. Carter as soon as you get to Hillsboro, and the more you see of her the more you'll enjoy your visit to Mrs. Pollard. Isn't he the most delightful of men?' She asked me the question, but she had the most wonderful way of seeming to be talking to everybody at one time, so Mrs. Johnson got in the first answer.

"Delightful, nothing! But Al Bennett is a man of sense not to marry any of the string of women I suppose he's got following him," she said. Miss Chester looked at her in a mild kind of wonder, but she went on murmuring Mr. Johnson's shirt sleeve with the needle without noticing the glance at all.

"Well, well, honey, I don't know about that," said Aunt Bettie as she fanned and rocked her great, big, darling, fat self in the strong rocker I always kept in the breezy angle of the porch for her. "Al is not old enough to have proved himself entirely, and from what I hear—"

She paused with a big, hearty smile that she always wears when she begins to tease or watchmake, and she does them both most of her time. But at whom do you suppose she looked? Not me! Miss Chester! That was cold but No 2 for that day, and I didn't react as quickly as I might, but when I did I was in the proper glow all over. When I revived and saw the lovely pale blush on her face I felt like a cabbage rose beside a teardrop. I was glad Aunt Adelaide came out on the porch just then so I could go in and tell Judy to bring out the iced tea and cakes. When I came from the kitchen I stepped into my room and took out one of Alfred's letters from the desk drawer and opened it at random, as you do the Bible when you want to decide things, and put my finger down on a line with my eyes shut. This was what it was:

"—and all these years I have walked the world, bladdered to its loveliness with the blackness that came to me when I found that you!"

I didn't read any more, but showed it back in a hurry and went on out on the porch, comforted in a way, but feeling some more in sympathy with Mrs. Johnson than I had before Aunt Bettie and her guest from Washington had interrupted our algebraic demonstration on the man subject. You can't always be sure of the right answer to X in any proposition of life, that is a woman's case.

And, furthermore, I didn't like that next hour much, just as a sample of life, for instance. Aunt Bettie had got her joining together humor well started, and right there before my face she made a present of every piece of man in Hillsboro to that lovely, distinguished, strange girl who could have slipped through a bucket hoop if she had tried hard. I had to sit there, listen to the presentations, watch her drink two tall glasses of delicious tea full of sugar and consume without fear three of Judy's puffy cakes, while I crumbled mine in secret over the banisters and set half the glass of tea out of sight behind the wistaria vine.

It was bad enough to hear Aunt Bettie just offer her Tom, who, if he is her own son, is my favorite cousin, but I believe the worst minute I almost ever faced was when she began on the judge for I could see from Aunt Adelaide's shoulder that Miss Chester how she was enjoying that, and she added another distinguished ancestor to her pedigree every time Aunt Bettie paused for breath. I couldn't say a word about the fish, and Aunt Adelaide wouldn't. I almost loved Mrs. Johnson when she bit off a thread viciously and said "Burr," as she rose to start the tea party hot.

LEAF FOURTH.

Monument or Trousseau?

THAT night I did so many exercises that at last I sank exhausted in a chair in front of my mirror and put my head down on my arms and cried the real tears you cry when nobody is looking. I felt terribly old and ugly and dowdy and widowed. It couldn't have been jealousy, for I just love that girl I want most awfully to hug her very shyness, and it was more what she might think of poor daddy me than what any man in Hillsboro, Tenn., or Paris, France, could possibly feel for the subject that hurt so hard. But then, looking back on it, I am afraid that jealousy sheds feathers, every night so you won't know him in the morning, for something made me sit up suddenly with a streak in my eyes and reach out to the desk for my pencil and check book. It took me more than an hour to figure it all up, but I went to bed a happier, though in prospect a poorer woman.

It is strange how spending a man's money makes you feel more congenial with him, and as I sat in the corner of my way to the city early the next morning I felt nearer to Mr. Carter than I almost ever did alive or dead. After this I shall always appreciate and admire him for the way he made money, since for the first time in my life I fully realized what it could buy.

First I went to see Mme. Courrier for corsets. I had heard about her, and I knew it meant a fortune. But that didn't matter. She came in and looked at me for about five minutes without saying a word and then she ran her hands down and down over me until I could feel the flesh just crawling off me. It was delicious.

Then she and two girls in puffs and ruffles came in and did things to a corset they laid on me that I can't even write down, for I didn't understand the process, but when I looked in that long glass, I almost dropped on the floor. I was right and I wasn't right, and I looked I'm too modest to write how lovely I really looked to myself. I was spellbound with delight.

Next I signed the check for three of those wonders with my head so in the clouds I didn't know what I was doing, but I can't get over a jolt when the prettiest girl began to get me into that black taffeta bag I had worn down to the city. I must have shrunk the whole remaining pounds I had left obliged to lose for Alfred and Ruth Chester from the horror I felt when I looked at myself. The girl was really sympathetic and said with a smile that she was kind. "Shall I call a taxi for madame and have it take her to Klein's? They have wonderful gowns by Rene all ready to be fitted at short notice. Really, madame's figure is such that it commands a perfect costume now." Men do business well, but when women enter the field they are geniuses at money extracting. I felt myself already clothed perfectly when that girl said my figure "commanded" a proper dress. Of course Klein pays Mme. Courrier a commission for the customers she passes right on to him. The one for me must have looked to her like a real estate transaction.

I spent three days at the great Klein store, only going to the hotel to sleep and most of the time I forgot to eat. Mme. Rene must have been Mme. Courrier's twin sister in youth, and Mme. Tellers in the hat department was the triplet to them both. When women have genius it breaks out all over them like measles and they never recover from it: those women had the confident kind. But I know that old Rene really liked me, for when I blushed and asked her if they had a good beauty doctor in the store she held up her hands and shrugged.

"Never, madame, never pour vous. Ravissante, charmante—it is to fool. Nevalir! Jamais, jamais de la vie!" I had to call her down, and she kissed my hand when we parted.

I thought Klein was going to do the same thing or worse when I signed the check which would be good for a house and lot and motorcar for him, but he didn't. Only he got even with me by saying, "And I am delighted that the trousseau is perfectly satisfactory to you, Mrs. Carter."

That was an awful shock and I hope I didn't show it as I murmured, "Perfectly, thank you."

The word "trousseau" can be spoken in a woman's presence for many years with no effect, but it is an awful shock when she first really hears it. I felt funny all afternoon as I packed those trunks for the 5 o'clock train.

Yes, the word "trousseau" ought to have a definite surname after it all ways and that's why my lovely dragged poor Mr. Carter out into the light of my conscience. The thinking of him had a strange effect on me. I had laid out the dream in dark gray blue rain, tailored almost beyond repairance, to wear home on the train and had thrown the old black taffeta bag across the chair to give to the hotel maid, but the decision of the session between conscience and loyalty made me pack the precious blue wonder and put on once more the black rings of remembrance in a kind of panic of respect.

I would later have bought poor Mr. Carter the monument I have been planning for months to keep up conversation with Aunt Adelaide than wear that dress again. I felt conscience prove me once more with loyalty looking on in disapproval as I buttoned the thing up for the last time, because I really ought to have stayed over a day to buy that monument, but, to tell the truth, I wanted to see Billy so desperately that his "sleep place" above my heart hurt as if it might have prickly heat break out at any minute.

So I hurried and stuffed the gray-blue darling in the car aisle, lapped old black taffeta around my waist and belted it in with a black belt of a new green linen I had made for morning walks down to the drug store on the public square. I suppose that is about the only morning dissipation in Hillsboro that I can get off of, and all depends on whom you meet how much of a dissipation it is.

The next thing that happens after you have done a noble deed is, you either regard it as a reward of virtue or as a punishment for having been foolish. I felt both ways when Judge Wade came down the car aisle, looking so much grander than any other man in sight that I don't see how they stand him over. At that minute the noble black taffeta deed felt foolish, but at the next minute I thanked my lucky stars for it.

It is nice to watch for a person to catch sight of you if you feel sure how he is going to take it, and somehow in this case I felt sure. I was not disappointed for his smile broke his face up into a joy laugh. "Oh came his hat instantly so I could catch a glimpse of the fascinating front of his temples, and with a positive sigh of culture he subsided into the seat beside me. I turned with an echo smile all over me, when suddenly his face became grave and considerate, and he looked at me as all the men in Hillsboro have been doing ever since poor Mr. Carter's funeral.

"Mrs. Carter," he said very kindly, in a voice that pitched me out of the car window and left me a mile before on the track, all by myself, "I wish I had known of your sad errand to town so I could have offered you some assistance in your selection. You know we have just had our lot in the cemetery finally arranged, and I found the leaders in memorial stones very confusing in their ideas and designs. Mrs. Henderson just told my mother of your absence from home last night, and I could only come down to the city for the day on important business or if I would have arranged to see you. I hope you found something that satisfied you."

What a woman going to say when she has a tombstone thrown in her face like that? I didn't say anything, but what I thought about Aunt Adelaide filled in a dreadful pause.

Perfectly dumb and quiet I sat for an awful space of time and wondered just what I was going to do. Could a woman lie a monument into her suit case? It was beyond me at that speaking, and the Molly that is ready for life quick didn't want to. I shut my eyes, counted three to myself as I do when I go over into the cold tub, and told him all about it. We both got a satisfactory reaction, and I never ended myself so much as that before.

I understand now why Judge Wade has had so many women marry themselves over him and live unhappily ever afterward, as everybody says Henrietta Mason is doing. He's a very inspiring man, and he fairly bristles with fascinations. Some men are what you call taking, and they take you if they want you, while others are drawn and after you are drawn to them they will consider the question of taking you. The judge is like that.

In the meantime it tangles me up to a very great degree to have a man use his eyes on me, as it is the privilege of only womanhood to do, and I feel that it will be good for his judgment for me to let him "draw" me at least a little way. I may get hurt, but I shall at least have an interesting time of it. I started right then and got results, for he stopped under the old lilac bush that leans over my side again and kissed my hand. Old Lilac shook a laugh of perfume all over us, and I believe signaled the event at the top of his bough to the white clump on the other side of the garden. I'm glad Aunt Adelaide isn't in the flower fraternity or sorority. Suppose she had seen or heard?

And it didn't take me many minutes to slip into old summer before last—also for the last time inside of those buttons—and run through the garden, my heart singing "Billy, Billy," in a perfect rapture of tune. I ran past the office door and found him in his cot almost asleep, and we had a bear reunion in the rocker by the window that made us both breathless.

"What did you bring me, Molly?" he finally kissed under my right ear. "A real baseball and bat, lover, and an engine with five cars, a rake and a spade and a hoe, two blowguns that pop a new way and something that squirts water and some other things. Will that be enough?" I hugged him up and down, for he asked in the tone of please and I might not have got the very thing he wanted.

"Thank you, Molly; all things are what I want, but you oughter bring more'n that for three days not being here with me." Did any woman ever have a more lovely lover than that? I don't know how long I should have rocked him in the twilight if Dr. John's voice hadn't come across the hall in command.

"Put him down now, Mrs. Molly, and come and say other how do you does," he called softly.

It was a funny thing to see him I felt as I came into the office where he was standing over by the window looking out at my garden in its twilight glow. I think it is wrong for a woman to let her imagination kiss a man on the back of his neck even if she has known for some time that there is a little drake tail lock of hair there just like his own son's. I gave him my hand and a good deal more of a smile and a blush than I intended.

He very far from kissed the hand; he held it just long enough to turn me around into the light and give me one long looking over from head to foot.

"Just where does that corset press your worst?" he asked in the tone of voice he uses to say, "Poke out your tongue." So much of my Tennessee shooting blood rose to my face that it is a wonder it didn't drip, but it was cold enough to have hit at forty paces if I had had a shooting iron in my hand. As it was, the coldness was the only missile that I had, but I used it to some effect.

"I am making a call on a friend, Dr. Moore, and not a consultation visit to my physician," I said, looking into his face as though I had never seen him before.

"I beg your pardon, Molly," he exclaimed. And his face was redder than mine, and then it went white with mortification. I couldn't stand that.

"Don't do that way," I exclaimed. And before I knew it I had taken hold of his hand and had it in both of mine. "I know I look as if I was shrunk or laced, but I'm not. I was going to tell you all about it and show it to you. I'm really inches bigger in the right place and just—just 'controlled,' the woman called it, in the wrong place. Please meet me and see." And I offered myself to him for examination in the most regardless way. He's not at all like other people.

The blood came back into his face, and he laughed and he gave me a little shake that pushed me away from him. "Don't you ever scare me like that again, child, or it might be serious," he said in the Billy and me tone of voice that I like some, only—

"I never will," I said in a hurry. "I want you to ask me anything in the world you want to and I'll always do it."

"Well, let me take you home through the garden then, and, yes, I believe I'll stay to catch a muffin with Mrs. Henderson. Don't you want to tell me what a little girl like you did in a big city and—read me part of that London letter I saw the postman give Judy this afternoon?"

Again I ask myself the question why his friendliness to Alfred Bennett's letters always makes me so instantly cross.

LEAF FIFTH.

Only an Old Song.

SLEEP is one of the most delightful and undervalued amusements known to the human race. I have never had enough yet, and every second of time that I'm not asleep I feel something interesting I cut up on the bed and go dream hunting only I sleep too hard to do much catching. But this torture book found that out on me and stopped it the very first thing on page three. The command is to sleep as little as possible to keep the nerves in a good condition. "Eight hours at the most and seven would be better." What earthly good would a seven hour nap do me? I want ten hours to sleep and twelve if I get a good tired start. To see me stagger out of my perfectly nice bed at 6 o'clock every morning now would wring the sternest heart with compassion and admiration at my faithfulness—to whom?

Yes, it was the day after poor Mr. Carter's funeral that Aunt Adelaide moved over here into my house and settled herself in the big south room across the hall from mine. Her furniture weighs a ton each piece, and Aunt Adelaide is not light herself in disposition. The next morning when I went in to breakfast she sat in the "vacant chair" in a way that made me see that she was obviously trying to fill the vacancy I am sorry she worried herself about that. Anyway, it made me take a resolve. After breakfast I went into the kitchen to speak to Judy.

"Judy," I said, looking past her head, "my health is not very good, and you can bring my breakfast to me in bed after this." Poor Mr. Carter always wanted breakfast on the stroke of 7 and me at the same time, though he rarely got me. Judy has two dead husbands and she takes a glum-colored bath down town. Also her mother is our washerwoman and influenced by Aunt Adelaide. Judy understands everything I say to her. After I had closed the door I heard a laugh

LOVES ANOTHER, SPOUSE GETS DIVORCE.

Only four divorce decrees were ground out Monday. Samuel E. Clark told the court that his wife, Grace Clark, loved another. She left him a note, he said, "I love another man and I don't want to see you again, so be on your way."

Maude Reinhardt was freed from Charles Reinhardt on the ground of desertion, and the same charge was made in the suits of Matthew W. Holcomb against Bessie Holcomb and Jennie Weil against Peter Weil.

The summons had not been properly made in the suit of Leila Edna Wood against Chester Guilford Wood, and the case was continued.

Mrs. Leila Steiner's suit against John Blake, for $50,000 for the death of her husband, will be tried March 3. This is an echo of the shooting at Kramer when Steiner was killed while Blake was defending himself against W. J. Young, it is declared. Blake was tried twice and then released.

Following are the various cases on the court calendars and the decision of the court.

ASKS $60,000 FOR BROKEN CONTRACT.

Demanding a total of $60,000 damages, R. L. Hussey, formerly manager of the Louisiana-California Mining company, on the Homer Lode claim on the desert, filed suit against the mining company Monday.

For the first cause of action Hussey demands $10,000 for labor and work on the claim, which he says he did for the Leiser Rea Mining company. The Louisiana-California company assumed this indebtedness, he alleges.

Then the new owners contracted with him to install a water system and manage the properties. He was to receive 40,000 shares of stock. Hussey declares the company has declined to reimburse him, and eject him from the property. He demands the company pay the $10,000 claim and give him $50,000 for the violation of its contract with him.

Attorneys Z. B. Stuart and C. W. Byrer of Los Angeles represent Hussey.

THIRTY ACRES FOR U. S. DATE CULTURE OUT ON DESERT.

The acquisition by the government of a tract of ten acres in Riverside county near Indio station, connecting the two horticultural experiment stations of the department of agriculture, on which date culture has been practiced, was made recently when citizens of Riverside county presented the government $350 to cover the cost of the transfer. The combined stations will give thirty acres upon which to conduct the government experiments, which thus far have given promise of great possibilities.

PASTOR FELON PLEADS FOR PROBATION.

Rev. Charles Lawrence, convicted of felony for obtaining property under false pretenses, Monday asked Judge R. E. Hledsoe for probation.

"I can tell you right now it will take strong evidence for me to release this prisoner on parole," Judge Hledsoe told Attorney Carter representing Lawrence. "If the best ends of society are subserved, however, by his release on parole, well and good, I will hear the evidence to support the motion on January 26."

Lawrence bid his wife and three children a tearful goodbye. His Christmas will be in the county jail.

The motion for probation, however, at least saved him from starting his term at the state's prison on Christmas day.

Mrs. Lawrence's trial on the same charge on which her husband stands convicted was set for Feb. 10, before Judge Hledsoe. The district attorney's office decided to state in court that the evidence was in sufficient to warrant prosecution, although a week ago Deputy District Attorney Dodge was willing to have the case dismissed through sympathy.

The woman has three children. Lawrence and his wife are charged with swindling E. A. Welch, an Ontario rancher, out of an orange grove.

VALUES WIFE'S AFFECTIONS AT $25,000.

Ludlow C. Powell, a Santa Fe conductor residing at Needles, says his wife's affections are worth $25,000, and that is the amount Powell demands that Elmer N. Baker, a haberdasher of Needles, pay him.

Powell has already filed a suit for divorce against his wife in which he alleges Baker broke up his home.

According to Powell, Baker won Mrs. Powell's affections, and caused her to spurn the love of her husband, by giving her costly gifts and showering her with attentions.

Attorneys Allison & Dickson, represent Powell in his alienation suit, and Attorneys Daley & Byrne will represent Baker.

Mrs. Lucy Demens of Los Angeles who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Thorpe, returned to her home Saturday.

Mrs. H. J. Clewett and children have gone to Elsinore to spend the holidays with her parents. Mr. Clewett will join them later.

Mildred and Constance Thorpe, who have been attending school at Los Angeles, returned to their home here Tuesday to spend the holidays with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Owen of San Francisco will spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Owen's mother, Mrs. E. W. Reid, of Alta Loma.

The Aloha Card club was entertained last Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Kulsman. All the members were present and the evening was spent very enjoyably playing 500, Henry Albert, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Salisbury having the highest scores for the evening's play. Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Lederer will entertain the club at the next meeting.

The Methodist Episcopal Sunday school held a Christmas celebration at the church Tuesday evening. Despite threatening rain there was a large attendance, and it was a happy, joyous occasion. A large tree adorned the pulpit platform and it was gaily decorated with strings of popcorn and gifts for the children. The exercises consisted of music and recitations and were well rendered and pleasing.

Monday's rainfall was very welcome to the farmers, as the grain fields were in need of more moisture and while the rain was not heavy it was sufficient to keep the crops in good growing condition. It was also beneficial in putting upper Hellman avenue, which was lately plowed and graded, in good shape for use. For the past week that thoroughfare has been almost impassable for vehicles, especially automobiles, but the grading is now completed and the wet soil will soon pack.

The Alta Loma Heights Citrus association began packing and shipping oranges at the new warehouse at Alta Loma this week. The warehouse is splendidly equipped for the handling of fruit, all the latest improvements in machinery being installed and the house being large and roomy for the handling and storage of oranges and lemons. A sweat-house for the coloring of lemons is now being built near the warehouse.

A quarterly meeting of the Citizens League of Alta Loma was held at the Hermosa schoolhouse Monday evening. Owing to wet weather the attendance was not as large as anticipated, but an interesting session was held and matters of importance discussed. Vice President C. F. Thorpe was chairman of the meeting. President R. M. Welch being unable to attend on account of sickness in his family. Secretary E. Goertitz made a report of what had been accomplished up to date by the league, and it showed that the officers have been active in good work. Among other things, they have induced the Pacific Electric Railway company to change the plans for the Alta Loma station so as to include a room for the exhibition of the products of this section. There will also be a room for public meetings in the building. Three new members were added at the meeting and others have signified their interest in and desire to join the league but were not present on account of the wet weather.

TEACH INSANE LIKE CHILDREN
Three hundred inmates of the state hospital at Massillon are going to school studying arithmetic, reading, geography, music, etc., the same as pupils in other schools. This school, started by Dr. H. C. Eymann, is the first effort of that sort in the treatment and care of the insane. It is being watched with much interest by other states. The general purpose is to stimulate mental effort, to call back the inmate-pupils as nearly to normal as possible, to occupy the attention during the day, to combat the tendency to moody reflections, to stay the progress of mental disorder, and give nature a chance to repair damages. It has succeeded beyond the expectations of those instrumental in founding it. It is credited with contributing substantial results in some notable cases. The inmates of the hospitals are the big one constantly before the eyes of the managers. Of necessity they must be kept interested and busy. Idleness is fatal. The school was started to appeal to the large number. Patients are gathered at certain hours of the day in the big recreation hall. The methods of the school are suited to the possibilities of the pupil. They are able to handle the work with ease and with many indications of enjoyment. In mathematics the problems, while involving figures, are made local and easy of application. It is not merely the problem of adding two and two making four. It is, if a man owned two cows, or pigs, or chickens, and bought two others, how many cows, or pigs, or chickens would he then have. They see the cows, the pigs and chickens, and the problem is made easier.

Recently they were given a problem like this: If three men hired a pasture for $40, one having ten cows, one having four and the other six, what part of the rent would each have to pay?

A dozen patients solved it, and nearly all in the room understood enough about it to try with fair results.

The work of the school has been slow because of the lack of suitable instructors. Dr. Eymann has done a considerable part of the work personally, although he has found some employees able to render effective aid.

If school work is finally proved capable of substantial results it will open a new field for trained instructors of the insane, in which people fitted for the work could find lucrative employment and render a large service to the afflicted.

Donations of money to the hospital from friends of Dr. Eymann made it possible to erect a building known as a recreation and education building. That building houses the school.

As fast as patients are interested in the work of the school, they are taught to take part in pool and billiards, to engage in bowling, to play tennis and baseball, and there are many proficient players in each of these forms of amusement.

All these games are a part of the day's work. They provide healthful employment, excite mental interest, arouse energy and stimulate activity to the physical and mental betterment of the patient.

Under the direction of Dr. Clark, the inmates of the hospital at Newburg are doing a great deal of manual labor and are manufacturing a wide range of articles and doing creditable work.

An exhibition of the work of the inmates has been made ready there and the public will have a chance to view it shortly.

One man there is a genius in construction.

trusted with the building of the Edystone lighthouse. He cast about to find a logical material to displace the expensive puzzolane. He found that by burning a certain chalk and grinding it to a powder he obtained a cement that set up very rapidly and was much stronger than the puzzolane. This he called Roman cement, and with it he built the Eddy stone light. This Roman cement was of a red-brown color.

In 1824 John Aspdin, a Leeds mason, set about to make Roman cement by artificially mixing powdered limestone and clay, and burning the mixture to a clinker, which was then ground to a fine powder. After much experimenting he produced a product by this procedure which, when mixed with water "set up" very rapidly under water to a hard, stonelike mass of gray color, resembling the famous Portland building stone. From this resemblance he called it Portland cement, to distinguish it from Roman cement and puzzolane. It soon displaced all other cements.

Portland cement, then, is an artificially-prepared product made by mixing powdered limestone and clay substance together in definite proportions and burning them to a clinker, which is then pulverized. Since Aspdin's day great improvement in the quality of Portland cement in the quality of Portland cement understanding of the chemistry of it, and to the modern machinery for making it.

The increased use of Portland cement in the last fifteen years is truly marvelous. Up to this time we imported most of our Portland cement from England and Germany. In 1895 2,500,000 barrels were imported, and 600,000 barrels were made in this country. In 1909 only 550,000 barrels were imported, while home production increased to 61,300,000 barrels.—Southwest Contractor.
